“Each of these photographs represent an aspect that encapsulates the ever changing sights to be seen on Rosslare Strand. What is most prevalent in all these photos is that no matter what you see in the photo, the weather is always present. What they show is Rosslare Strand in all four seasons. This is a place to be in awe of; no leaves fall here as clues yet the seasons can be followed by the change in the roll of the sea, or the arrival of the terns, the mackerel and the jellyfish.

I welcome you to share the images I captured as I strolled on my beach, The Strand.

By the Sea, By the Shore is presented in memory of my sister Emer.
